Planck's law describes the spectral density of electromagnetic radiation emitted by a black body in thermal equilibrium at a given temperature T , when there is no net flow of matter or energy between the body and its environment. The law is named after Max Planck, who proposed it in 1900. It was a pioneering insight of modern physics and is of fundamental importance to quantum theory

In geometry, a surface S is ruled (also called a scroll) if . through every point of S there is a straight line that lies on S .; Examples include the plane, the curved surface of a cylinder or cone, a conical surface with elliptical directrix, the right conoid, the helicoid, and the tangent developable of a smooth curve in space.. A ruled surface can be described as the set of points swept by ...
